Bay Bridge Starts Competition With S. P. Co.

Richmond Forum Will Meet Next Tuesday

At Washington School, in the Boy Scout Room, on next Tuesday evening, November 17, at 8 p.m., will be the meeting of the Richmond Forum. This is a non-partisan, non-sectarian, form of organization the purpose of which is the discussion and debate of current problems in the city, state, and nation which are of interest to intelligent people. All are welcome to attend.

Supreme Court Discussion

Of major interest will be the discussion on the "Supreme Court and the Constitution." Just what effect the recent popular mandate for President Roosevelt will have on the attitude of the present court and coming legislation is a vital issue.

Also discussed will be "Municipal Ownership of Electrical Facilities." What has happened in various cities throughout California and other states will be brought out, and it is expected that many good speakers will be present, on both sides of the questions.

All are invited. Mrs. Adeline Stender is the president of the Richmond Forum; Mr. A. S. Whiteside, vice president; and Mr. E. J. Dingle, secretary.

County Central Committee Will Unite With Labor Council In Monster Victory Rally

IN RICHMOND DECEMBER 3rd

Committees of Two County Organizations Will Meet to Work Out Plans

Thursday December 3d will be a big night in Richmond when the Democratic County Central Committee and the Contra Costa County Central Trades and Labor Council puts on the big Victory Rally and Dance in this city.

Appeared before the county central committee at the meeting in Martinez Tuesday night Jack Faulkner, labor council representative. County Chairman Harry R. Burt appointed the following committeemen to work with a committee of the labor council on arrangements—Gus Lang, Allan Engells, Robert Willis, Joe Aiello, Ed Sellers. First meeting will be at Brotherhood Hall, Richmond next Tuesday night.

A telegram from Senator Wm. G. McAdoo's office and a letter of thanks from the school board of John Swett Union High school was evidence of the recent PWA grant of $193,000 to that school district.

A letter of commendation was ordered sent to Assemblyman Leon Donihue for the splendid work of his assembly committee in probing state affairs.

Ruckus Only Slight

In fairness to the Independent it must be stated that that newspaper's account of the slight ruckus at the last meeting was correct: but it indicates nothing more than that our Contra Costa Democrats are yet Democrats—and will have plenty of steam left for the 1938 elections.

Next regular meeting of the County Committee will be on Tuesday December 1st.

BEST LAUGH OF THE WEEK . . WAS WHEN—Jim Ryan told us he heard that Governor Landon had said recently that if Al Smith and Herbert Hoover had made a few more speeches Landon would have voted for Roosevelt, hisself. We will now sing the Literary Digest's theme song: "You Turned the Tables On Me."

UNION OIL RAISES WAGES, IS REPORT OF SAM W. HERROD, BUSINESS AGT. OF OIL WORKERS

According to Sam W. Herrod, business agent of the Oil Workers Union No. 326, the Union Oil Company has taken a great step toward meeting the promise made to representatives of the organization several months ago.

The wages at the company now range from $5.50 and six ($6.00) for laborers to $8.50 and $9.00 for Mechanics, with a wage of $9.00 for all stillmen and operaeors.

Many other classifications not listed exceed the rates paid by other companies for similar work. However, there are a number of discrepancies remaining to be adjusted and a committee composed of Herrod, Maikos and E. Mason representing the oil workers union will meet with the company heads in Los Angeles on next Thursday to discuss wage differentials and classification adjustments.

Age Old Battle of Southern Pacific To Block Transbay Traffic Enters Last Stages

150,000 CARS IN TWENTY-SIX HOURS

Big Span Opens For Autos, and Fares Stay at Same Old Southern Pacific Level

In all the voluminous literature that has graced the columns of our metropolitan press in the last few days we have seen naught of the Battle of the Decades when the San Francisco bay cities were fighting the Southern Pacific for permission to go ahead on the bridge construction.

With no thought of taking away one whit of the credit for stupendous engineering achievements of Chief Engineer Purcell and his workmen in surmounting the physical obstacles to the construction of the World's Largest Bridge, we yet believe the political obstacles put in the way of the people by the Southern Pacific and kindred interests was opposition which really held up the deal.

Years of Delay

Does anyone believe that the bridge could not have been built ten or twenty years ago, as well as now? And that, at the rate of traffic in the last two days—150,000 cars in 26 hours—that the bridge could not have been already paid for?

Do you recall, eight or ten years ago, the foolish objections to the bridge? First, it was the Navy officials who were afraid it would be bombed—in times of peace?— and then, at the last, when the commission had gone back to Washington to sign up on the deal, one brainy member began to agitate for a transbay tube? Oh, no, the fine hand of the S. P. was not in on such delays. Oh, no!

Fares Are the Same

Anyway, the bridge is now built and going strong. Thanks, evidently, to the S. P. competition, the auto fares are the same as on the auto ferries—65 cents for the auto and driver, 5 cents for each additional passenger.

Lieutenant Governor George Hatfield has been making a big play—"much ado about nothing"—in starting a fight for a 50-cent fare.

George Wishes Himself In

Just why George should get all 'hot and bothered' about the bridge fare, unless he considers himself much more powerful than all the boards of supervisors, the chambers of commerce, etc., is not quite clear to the common fry.

Our private opinion, expressed publicly, is that the 50-cent fare will go into effect with fanfare and flourishes, just a few months previous to the 1938 gubernatorial election. Whereupon George will be crowned with the diadem and the laurel wreath—in the fond hope that a grateful public will give him the governorship, and thereby burden themselves with another four years of Republican misrule.

The Progress Predicts

The Progress predicts that the scheme will not work because by that time Cliff Anglim, Democrat will be out in front of George so far that it will not even be funny. He will outrun Hatfield as Roosevelt outran Landon.

That's all from the Progress—the rest of the papers have taken care of the romance, we care only for the truth—but we may run for Third Assistant Street Sweep next year; and, if we do, we may come out for a 49-cent bay bridge fare—and we'd have about as much right in the fight as George.

WE TAKE OFF OUR HAT TO . .

John D. Rockefeller, Jr.,—BECAUSE of his sportsmanlike attitude in complimenting Democratic National Chairman James A. Farley for the way in which Mr. Farley rung the bell, in a statesmanlike manner, in his very brief speech immediately after the election. We say the same, Mr. Rockefeller. At least, we have one thing in common, if not finances.

Shipping Is Crippled by Maritime Strike

THIRTY-SEVEN thousand maritime workers on the Pacific coast went on strike, and immediately the trouble spread to the Gulf and Atlantic coasts. In the west about 150 vessels were tied up in ports and others heading that way faced walkouts by their crews on arrival. In New York members of the International Seamen's union voted a "sit down" strike in defiance of their national officers, and maritime workers in Houston and Port Arthur, Texas, quit their jobs and picketed the waterfront. Federal officials were trying hard to settle the disputes between the unions and shipping companies, chief of which relate to control of the hiring halls, wage increases and shorter hours. Assistant Secretary of Labor E. F. McGrady was in San Francisco and intimated the government might intervene.

Mayor Rossi

"When any group, whether bankers, employers or labor, take action endangering the welfare of the nation they are assuming a position that the government must challenge to protect the state and the people," McGrady said.

"The free flow of water-borne foreign and interstate commerce has become paralyzed. This will involve directly or indirectly the lives of the citizens of the whole nation."

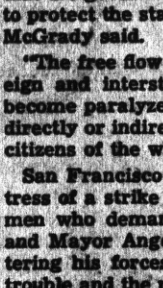
San Francisco had the added distress of a strike of 1,000 warehousemen who demanded higher wages, and Mayor Angelo Rossi was mustering his forces to meet both this trouble and the maritime strike. He expected violent warfare along the waterfront and said he would take the necessary steps to protect public interests. The police set up headquarters in the Ferry building and strung their own telephone wires to every pier.

It was reported in San Francisco that coast shipowners were considering a plan to ask the United States navy to put "safety crews" aboard western merchant ships left unmanned.

Admiral Harry G. Hamlet, as a member of the federal maritime commission, opened a fact-finding hearing in San Francisco, summoning the shipowners to present their case first. The seven striking unions and their allies were to be heard later. The maritime commission had previously ordered peremptorily that the strike be delayed until it could hold the hearing, but the unions declined to submit to this dictation.

Mussolini Says Italy's Policy Is Armed Peace

"OUR policy is one of peace with everybody. But it will be an armed peace." Such was the flat statement of Premier Mussolini of Italy in a speech at Milan which was carried by radio throughout the world. It was addressed to all nations, but especially to Great Britain, whose superiority in the Mediterranean Il Duce boldly challenged. He appealed to the British to come to some agreement with Rome as to Italy's rights and interests in this area, warning that failure to do so might mean war.



Premier Mussolini

"If the Mediterranean is for others a high road," said Mussolini, "for us Italians it is life. We have said a thousand times and I repeat we do not intend to menace this road, we do not intend to interrupt it. But we say, on the other hand, our rights and vital interests must be respected."

He saw the League of Nations "shipwrecked by Wilson ideology," which he asserted was the philosophy inspiring "the illusion of disarmament."

"The league must reform or perish." So far as Italy is concerned "the league may perish," he asserted.

In London it was said that recognition of Italy's sovereignty over Ethiopia could come only through League of Nations procedure so far as England is concerned. Foreign office comment was that no matter what might be the portent of Mussolini's speech, Britain would not change her Mediterranean policy.

Toronto's "Baby Derby" Ends in a Muddle

WHEN Charles Vance Millar died ten years ago leaving a will in which $500,000 was bequeathed to the Toronto woman who gave birth to the greatest number of children in the ensuing decade, it was considered a sardonic joke. The "baby derby" is over, and it still is a joke, or at least a sad muddle. Six women are tied for the prize, each claiming nine registered babies, and eight others have filed claims with the executors of the will.

Two relatives of Millar announced they would contest the will; and the Ontario government was ready to intervene with legislation that would keep the lawyers, who planned legal actions in behalf of various claimants, from getting most of the money.

Hoare Warns Russia Not to Meddle in England

IN THE house of commons representatives of the British government declared that nonintervention in Spain must be preserved to prevent chaos in Europe; and then Sir Samuel Hoare, first lord of the admiralty, uttered a stern warning to soviet Russia not to interfere with affairs in England.

Sir Samuel Hoare

"It is almost always disastrous to interfere in the affairs of other countries," Sir Samuel declared, addressing a west-end meeting. "I commend that observation to agents of the comintern. They will find that the more they interfere in the domestic affairs of this country, the worse it will react against their activities."

Sir Samuel added: "On no account must we interfere in business which does not concern us. It is necessary to say that—and say it most clearly—in view of the very curious vacillating attitude adopted by the Labor party toward the civil war in Spain."

The admiralty first lord referred to the complete "volte face" of the Labor party in resolutely supporting the government's policy of "hands off Spain" at the party congress recently and then shifting to demands that the government permit British sale of arms to Spain.

Madrid Is Bombed by Insurgent Planes

REPEATED raids by rebel bombing planes were made on Madrid and its suburbs and scores of persons, mainly women and children, were killed. There was fierce and desperate fighting northeast of the capital and the government forces were driven back toward the city. The defense lines were reorganized, however, south of Madrid and on the road to Toledo and the government commanders were preparing for a "sweeping new offensive." The Fascists took Brunete after a bloody fight, having already captured three other towns in that region, and came within seventeen miles of Madrid.

Mollison Sets a Record in Atlantic Flight

CAPT. JAMES A. MOLLISON, English aviator, established a new speed record for trans-atlantic flights when he landed at Croydon airport, near London, 13 hours and 17 minutes after he had left Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, in his American Bellanca monoplane Dorothy. The previous fastest west to east crossing was made in 1932 by Amelia Earhart in 14 hours, 54 minutes from Harbor Grace to Londonderry, Ireland.

Nazi Four Year Program Launched by Goering

GEN. HERMANN WILHELM GOERING, German minister of air and now the director of the Nazi four-year economic scheme to make the reich independent of the rest of the world in raw materials, launched his program at a great Nazi rally in Berlin. "We shall hack finger after finger off the foreign hand clutching at Germany's throat within the next four years," he declared.

Gen. Goering

Outlining his plans, Goering said no German had starved, nor would starve. The high seas fishing fleet will be increased, he asserted, so the people can eat fish when meat is not available. Whale fishing will be developed for the margarine it can produce, he promised.

Goering urged all Germans to follow the example of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler who, he said, eats neither meat nor butter. The audience yelled with delight when the robust Goering told them he had lost 22 pounds by eating less butter.

Germany would prefer the old system of international exchange of wares, but this now is impossible in a mad world, so Germany will build her factories, produce her own synthetic rubber and her own substitutes for cotton and other materials for which she now must spend millions of dollars yearly, the general declared.

Lorado Taft, Noted Sculptor, Dies

LORADO TAFT of Chicago, generally recognized as the foremost American sculptor of this period, died at the age of seventy-six after an illness of eight days. He knew his demise was impending and worked hard almost to the last in the endeavor to complete several commissions. Mr. Taft was a graduate of the University of Illinois and studied in the Ecole des Beaux Arts in Paris. He did many important pieces of sculpture and also was continually active in enlarging public knowledge and appreciation of art.

Japan Emperor Reviews His Large Fleet

NOT to be outdone in martial gestures by other nations, Japan trotted out her entire navy for review by Emperor Hirohito. It was the greatest fleet ever brought together in Asiatic waters, comprising 108 warships aggregating nearly 700,000 tons and manned by 40,000 men. Large numbers of aircraft also took part in the evolution in Osaka bay.

Roosevelt Names Eight for Peace Conference

SECRETARY OF STATE HULL and seven other Americans were named by President Roosevelt as the United States delegates in the forthcoming inter-American conference in Buenos Aires for the maintenance of peace. The conference is to open on December 1, and the American delegation is on its way now to the Argentine capital. Mr. Hull's colleagues are:

Sumner Welles, assistant secretary of state in charge of Latin American affairs; Alexander W. Weddell, ambassador to Argentina; Adolf A. Berle Jr., chamberlain of New York city; Alexander F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen; Charles G. Fenwick, professor of political science, Bryn Mawr college; Michael F. Doyle, Philadelphia lawyer, and Mrs. Elsie F. Musser, Salt Lake city, member of the Utah state senate.

Census Bureau Guess Is 128,429,000 Population

UNCLE SAM'S nephews and nieces now number 128,429,000, according to the estimate of Director William L. Austin of the bureau of census. The new figure, as of July 1, represented an increase of 908,000, or 0.71 per cent, since July 1, 1935. It was based on the number of births and deaths during the year ending June 30, 1936, and the excess of immigration over emigration.

Births exceeded deaths by 899,956 and the net immigration was 8,044, according to the data taken by Austin. The population figure on the basis of the 1930 census was 122,775,046, and the biggest annual increase since then was 1,022,000, for the year ending July 1, 1931.

The bureau of agricultural economics also has been doing some population estimating. It says the back to the farm movement of the depression years has halted and that the farm population remained practically stationary during 1935, being 31,809,000 at the end of that year. This figure, the bureau says, was only slightly greater than in 1920 and "somewhat less" than in 1910.

France Will Build Up Its Air Strength

SPURRED to quick action by the new accord between Germany and Italy, Leon Blum's popular front cabinet approved a large increase in France's military air force, already reputed to be one of the most powerful in the world. To modernize and build up the aerial squadrons the government will spend $230,000,000 at once. It was reported, too, that the cabinet decided to ask parliament to vote extraordinary funds for the fortification of the northern frontier because of Belgium's reversion to a policy of armed neutrality.

Veteran Ship Captain Dies in England

MANY American travelers join the English in mourning the death of Sir Edgar Britten, commander of the great liner Queen Mary and commodore of the Cunard White Star lines. He was stricken with paralysis in Southampton and died within a few hours. Sir Edgar was sixty-two years old and first went to sea as a lad of eighteen in sailing ships. He was knighted by King George V in 1934.

Mrs. "Wally" Simpson Is Granted Divorce

PROCEEDINGS lasting nineteen minutes in the court of assizes at Ipswich, England, sufficed to give marital freedom to Mrs. "Wally" Simpson. Justice Sir Anthony Hawke heard neatly arranged evidence of the infidelity of Ernest Simpson, who was not represented, and gruffly gave a decree nisi to the attractive American woman who has been and is the close friend of King Edward VIII. For six months she will be on probation, technically chaperoned at all times, and if her behavior satisfies the king's proctor she will be unqualifiedly free April 27 to marry again. Whether or not her new husband, if she takes one, will be King Edward is a question that only time and the two persons most directly concerned can determine.

Mrs. Simpson

Mrs. Simpson returned from Ipswich to her London residence on Cumberland terrace, Regents park, and there told interviewers that she was angered and humiliated by the international sensation her divorce has caused. She said she might go abroad for a time but that she would never return to the United States.

The Week, a radical London weekly, was the first English newspaper to carry an open reference to Mrs. Simpson's friendship with King Edward. The article was at the same time a denunciation of the American press for giving the story such prominence and of the British press for suppressing it entirely. It also made it clear that there would be widespread opposition to a marriage between Edward and "Wally." Papers from Paris and elsewhere outside the United Kingdom have been in great demand in London, but of course the vast majority of the English people know nothing about the affair.

Trade Balance Unfavorable for Nine Months

EXPORTS of manufactured goods and raw materials exceeded imports into the United States during September by more than four million dollars, according to a report released by Secretary of Commerce Roper. But the flow the other way was so strong during the previous three months that the country suffered an unfavorable balance of trade during the first nine months of the year amounting to $33,136,000. This is in contrast with a favorable balance of $66,496,000 in the corresponding period of 1935.

Secretary Roper

Roper minimized the situation, declaring that heavy exports of raw cotton, tobacco and automobiles would probably bring the trade balance more into line with previous years. Pressed for further explanation Roper insisted that "our government as such does not compete with other governments in the selling of goods," and this was the province of private business. On reciprocal trade agreements he was mum.

"We'd like to end the year with a favorable trade balance, naturally," he said, "but we are going through a period of study and readjustment in world trade."

In fact, Roper found the increase in import trade to be "encouraging." He said that it showed our industries were buying raw materials abroad for expansion of their production in this country. Heavy increases in wheat and meats resulted from the drouth, according to Roper, rather than from the killing of six million pigs and non-raising of grain under the AAA.

Noble Bay Tree Has Long Been Associated With Man

The noble bay tree has been associated with man for many centuries. In the thirty-seventh Psalm is stated: "I have seen the wicked in great power, and spreading himself like a green bay tree." Peculiarly enough, it was this same bay to which the ancient Greeks and later the Romans turned for the "laurel" for the brows of warrior heroes, according to an authority in the Los Angeles Times.

The Roman Caesars wore bay leaves as a circle crown. Sometimes they used a gold imitation of the living plant. The famous Napoleonic wreath was a circle branch of laurel inclosing the letter "N."

RICHMOND FOLK BID "BON VOYAGE" TO CLIPPER SHIP; TOM CARLSON ON CRAFT

Twenty or more people from the Point motored to the Oakland Airport Tuesday afternoon to see the Hawaiian Clipper leave for the Orient. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. H W Mergenthal, Miss Viola Trainor and Miss K. McCracken. Jack Lee was there with his moving picture camera, taking movies of the event.

Among the passengers who boarded the ship was our noted City Attorney Thomas M. Carlson, whose family and friends were there in numbers to wish him bon voyage.

"Tempus fugit." Less than ten years ago, in 1927, the newspapers of the world were filled with columns of the San Francisco-Hawaiian Dole flight. Now we find one of our own fellow-citizens, Tom Carlson, making the flight. Certainly Tom is not selling the U. S. A. short in his confidence in the ability of the Clipper pilots

Point W. C. T. Union Meeting

The Point Richmond Womens Christian Temperance Union chapter met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Paul Dunlap on Terrace Avenue. As this was a rally of members, quite a number was present and all enjoyed the fine hospitality of Mrs. Dunlap.

Mrs. Mary Young of Golden Gate Avenue spent last week end in San Francisco, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Bennison in the Richmond district.

PROGRESS VISITORS

The Progress was happy to receive as visitors last night Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Jones, who have recently moved to our community and fell in love with Point Richmond. Mr. Jones is the research engineer for the Contra Costa Development Association. Both are newspaper folk of long standing and they seemed to enjoy the smell of printer's ink in our friendly newspaper plant. Come again.

Mr. Tim Arundel, longtime SOCO employee, and former resident of our native city of Olean, N. Y., has just returned from an extended visit to the old home town, and various other points in the East, including New York City. Returned with him to Pt. Richmond was Miss Mary Arundel, his sister, from Erie, Penna.

A GOLD STAR MOTHER GETS WISH ON HER WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

"On election morning," said Mrs. Louis Hagen, "I told my husband I just knew Mr. Roosevelt would be returned to the White House with a big majority because the day was our 54th wedding anniversary. And besides he was born the year we were married, so I decided to send him a congratulatory message." Mrs. Hagen is a gold star mother. She and her husband were born on ranches where El Cerrito is now. The El Cerrito post of the American Legion is named for their son, Louis Hagen, killed in action "over there." Mrs. Hagen made a pilgrimage to France with other Gold Star Mothers as a guest of the American Government some years ago.

Trinity Guild Whist

Trinity Guild will present another popular Whist party next Wednesday afternoon in the Guild Hall. The games are to begin at 2 p. m. and a general invitation is extended to card players by the president, Mrs. William Janke.

Another Residence on Bayshore

Another fine residence is being erected on the Bayshore by G. O. Hillier of Berkeley. The foundation is being laid for quite a mansion which, being located on Washington Point, will have a splendid view of the bay and the Marin hills across the water. The building is to be of stucco facing and the architectural design will conform in its floor levels to the contour of the ground.

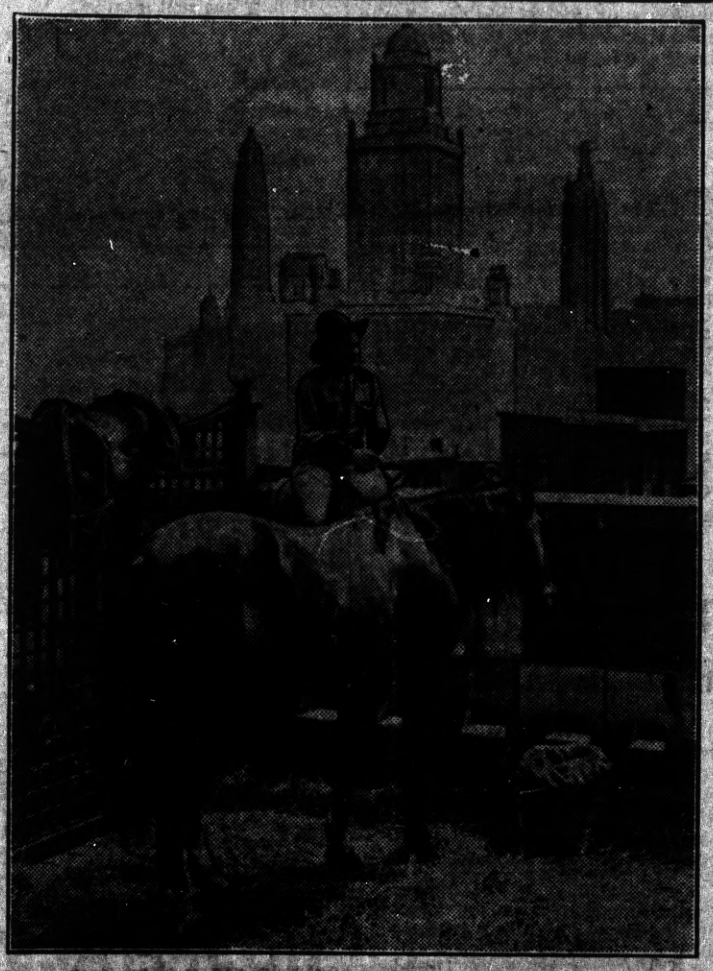
Little Sylvia Fry who has been staying with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Finley on the Bayshore for several months has returned to Long Beach. Mrs. Finley accompanied Sylvia and will visit a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Fry before returning to Richmond.

New Improvements

Mrs. Charles Hoover and son, Charles, former residents of the Point, visited the scene of their old home last Saturday afternoon when they came here from Cloverdale where they have a ranch.

Mrs. Hoover is planning some improvements in the near future on property located at Richmond and Santa Fe Avenues.

SILVER DOLLAR BRADY RENTS PENTHOUSE FOR PRIZE HORSE



Silver Dollar Brady, wealthy cowboy from Dallas, has the world's first hotel "penthouse corral" 17 floors above Chicago. Brady and his horse are shown here "at home" looking out over the skyline.

"More Silver Dollars in circulation will bring back better business conditions a whole lot faster."

That's the idea of Silver Dollar Brady, who arrived in Chicago with the intention of getting more Silver Dollars in circulation.

Brady, big, six-foot wealthy rancher from the West, walked into the Hotel Sherman, his prize horse trailing behind. First, he registered with the horse at his heels . . . then both man and beast went into the coffee shop and had a bite to eat.

He had wired for reservations for himself "and horse," and was given a penthouse high above the street on the 17th floor, with special corral, hay, oats and all, for his horse.

"The trouble with paper dollars is, you don't feel 'em in your pocket," Brady said. "Now, it's different with Silver Dollars. You know you got 'em. They seem to mean a whole lot more. But because they're heavy, you spend 'em a lot quicker."

Brady said he was going to urge merchants to pay their employees in Silver Dollars.

"Then you just watch business boom," he said.

Brady himself wears a valuable belt made of old and rare Silver Dollars.

One Million Teachers

There are approximately 1,063,000 teachers in all types of schools in the United States. About 700,000 of these are in elementary schools, 250,000 in secondary schools, and 90,000 in colleges.

Approximately one-fourth of the nation's total population attends school daily during the school year. Considerably more than 30,000,000 pupils are enrolled in full-time day schools. Of this number about 24,000,000 children attend elementary schools. Secondary school enrollment is about 6,000,000 and about 1,500,000 young men and women are attending colleges. There are more than 276,555 schools of different types throughout the United States. — Chicago Tribune.

Here's that Fast "Phillips" Way

To Alkalize Stomach Quickly

On all sides, people are learning that the way to gain almost incredibly quick relief, from stomach condition arising from overacidity, is to alkalize the stomach quickly with Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

You take either two teaspoons of the liquid Phillips' after meals; or two Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets. Almost instantly "acid indigestion" goes, gas from hyperacidity, "acid - headaches" — from over-indulgence in food or smoking — and nausea are relieved.

Try this Phillips' way if you have any acid stomach upsets. You will be surprised at results. Get either the liquid "Phillips" or the remarkable, new Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets. Only 25¢ for a big box of tablets at drug stores.

ALSO IN TABLET FORM

Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Be Sure They Properly Cleanse the Blood

YOUR kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as nature intended—fail to remove impurities that poison the system when retained.

Then you may suffer nagging backache, dizziness, scanty or too frequent urination, getting up at night, puffiness under the eyes; feel nervous, miserable—all upset.

Don't delay! Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are especially for poorly functioning kidneys. They are recommended by grateful users the country over. Get them from any druggist.

WHAT IS A LIE?

ONE of our readers asks how far it is safe to follow "this new-tangled notion of the psychologists" that children must never be regarded as lying, for what they do is only "wish thinking." She sends us something on the subject that appeared in a newspaper. Here it is:

"When we persist in demanding of them absolute truthfulness of our children, we neglect to make allowance for the child's natural tendency to say what he wishes were so instead of what actually is so. The same drive which makes a child forget duties and remember pleasures, which makes him invent delightful happenings in place of painful and humiliating ones, causes him sometimes to distort the behavior of others. He supplies for their actions the motives and interpretations which are more agreeable to him than the actual ones. He misconstrues what they do and say in his own favor—and all this he does quite honestly and innocently."

It seems to me that there is a good idea gone wrong. It is the other extreme from the rigorous and cruel viewpoint of making a child feel like a criminal for indulging in a little "wish thinking" or allowing an active imagination to slightly color or exaggerate an incident.

I believe it is unquestionable that a child should never be made to feel like a criminal, should never be called a liar. On the other hand, it is no less dangerous and wrong to condone such disregard of veracity as "misconstruing in his own favor the actions of others." In that case I believe a spade should be called a spade. For the child is father of the man. Our chief job with the child is building the character of the man. And while a certain imaginative phase of babyhood may be disregarded as quite harmless, there are very definite limits, it seems to me.

If we are to encourage the "natural tendency to say what he wishes were so instead of what actually is so," it is not a very far cry to his saying that something which belongs to another boy is his. And what then about appropriating that dollar which he "wishes" were his? Also if we are to accept with approval distortion in his favor of the behavior of others, what shall we say if later he says "I borrowed that boy's bike because he told me I could"—or of some damage for which he is responsible that "the other fellow did it?"

Compared with many of the old ways, today's methods of dealing with children are a distinct improvement. But it is important always to avoid dangerous extremes, to keep within the guiding light of common sense.

Bedtime Story by Thornton W. Burgess

THE ROBBERS DECIDE TO FIGHT

WHEN one of the young robber rats at the meeting of all the rats in the big barn which Billy Mink had visited boasted that he never had seen anyone he couldn't hide from, all the other young rats nodded their heads in approval. You see they prided themselves on knowing every hiding place in that big barn, and they never had known an enemy small enough to follow them to these hiding places. So when the gray, old leader of that robber gang said that unless he was greatly mistaken they were likely to have a chance to see someone they couldn't hide from, they at once demanded to know what he meant.

"Knowledge of Life Is Obtained Only Through Experience," He Began.

The old leader looked around the circle of rats waiting for him to speak. There were big rats, little rats, and middle-sized rats. There were rats gray with age, and sleek young rats. He counted noses. Every rat of the tribe, save only the babies too small to leave the nests, and the one whom Billy Mink had caught, was present. In the faces of the gray old rats he could see worry. Like himself they understood the danger they were in. In the faces of the younger rats there was no worry. It was plain to see that they felt quite confident of being able to take care of themselves. Never in all their lives had they met an enemy they could not run away from, and he knew they didn't believe such an enemy existed.

"Knowledge of life is obtained only through experience," he began. "You who are so sure you can hide from this new enemy are confident because you are ignorant. Cats and dogs you do not fear because you can go where they can not follow, but this mink who has found our den can follow where any of you, even the smallest, can go."

"But if he does not see us hide how can he find us?" squeaked a sharp-nosed young rat.

"A mink does not have to see in order to follow," retorted the gray old leader. "You cannot move without leaving a scent which he can follow by means of his wonderful nose. All he had to do is to find where you have been and then follow straight to where you are hiding. He can run faster than you can and longer than you can. There is no escape from him, once he sets out to catch one of you. The best fighter among us is no match for him alone. I tell you, friends, our tribe is in danger. It is in the greatest danger it ever has faced. I have called you together to make this plain to you and to get your ideas as to what we should do."

For a few moments no one spoke. The worried look on the faces of the older rats had crept into the faces of the younger rats. Finally a scarred old fighter spoke. "It seems to me," said he, "there is only one thing to do, and that is fight. What one of us alone can not do, all of us together can. I propose that the next time this enemy appears we all attack him together."

To this all the rats agreed.

Bicameral Legislatures

All the states have a lower and upper house in their state legislatures. All the states are bicameral (two branches to the assembly or legislature), although it is curious to note that Pennsylvania, Georgia and Vermont were at first constructed on the unicameral, or one-house system of legislature.

All the states designate the upper house of the legislature as the senate and in most of the states the lower branch of the state legislature is known as the house of representatives, although a few style it the assembly. In three it is known as the house of delegates.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Stomach Gas So Bad Seems To Hurt Heart

"The gas on my stomach was so bad I could not eat or sleep. Even my heart seemed to hurt. A friend suggested Adlerika. The first dose I took brought me relief. Now I eat as I wish, sleep fine and never felt better." —Mrs. Jas. Filler.

Adlerika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels while ordinary laxatives act on the lower bowel only. Adlerika gives your system a thorough cleansing, bringing out old, poisonous matter that you would not believe was in your system and that has been causing gas pains, sour stomach, nervousness and headaches for months.

Dr. H. L. Shook, New York, reports "In addition to intestinal cleansing, Adlerika greatly reduces bacteria and intestinal toxins."

Give your bowels a REAL cleansing with Adlerika and see how good you feel. Just one spoonful relieves GAS and stubborn constipation. Leading Druggists.

THAT discussion about who will get the leads in the picture version of "Gone With the Wind" is still raging. One faction insists that the coveted roles were simply made for Miriam Hopkins and Clark Gable. Then a rumor sprang up to the effect that everything was settled; Talullah Bankhead and Ronald Colman were to play them.

Usually those discussions peter out with the parts being given to people no one had even thought of. Sometimes the public is asked to make suggestions, and the mail comes in by the ton, demanding a popular favorite in at least one role; if there are enough requests some attention is paid to them.

They do say that Ruth Chatterton is none too happy over the ending of "Girls' Dormitory." Originally it had a quite different one, with Miss Chatterton winning the hero, Herbert Marshall, when he realized that little Simone Simon was too young for him and that he had merely been infatuated with her.

Simone Simon

But things happened. The little Simone, it seems, has a way of getting what she wants, off the screen as well as on. So a new ending was the result, and a rather unconvincing one it is, too.

Another of those delightfully nonsensical pictures — and an exciting one, too — is "Manhattan Madness," with Jean Arthur and Joel McCrea. They seem to have a special talent at Columbia for turning out this brand of entertainment.

Phillips Lord, who writes and directs two of the popular radio programs, "Gang Busters" and "We, the People," doesn't listen to the more exciting broadcasts when he's just listening for entertainment. He likes Frank Black's music and Edgar Guest's "Welcome Valley."

Miriam Hopkins annoyed newspaper and magazine interviewers, we hear, when she was in New York on her way back to Hollywood from England. Made appointments with them for a certain day, and then went out early in the morning and just didn't come back. And Rosalind Russell annoyed one of the more important fan magazine editors by not being at all co-operative about an interview. So if you don't see much about either of them in your favorite magazine, you'll know why.

ODDS AND EXDS . . . It's reported that Clark Gable's exwife will marry one of the East's social headliners . . . If you hear that Elton Thomas wrote "The Adventures of Marco Polo," which Gary Cooper will do, remember that that's the pen name used by Douglas Fairbanks . . . The romance between Merle Oberon and David Niven is still blazing . . . Florence Eldridge, Fredric March's wife, who was "Queen Elizabeth" in "Mary of Scotland," has abandoned the movies for a return to the stage . . . Which will, no doubt, be the best way to get her what she wants in the movies . . . Bette Davis may have lost that legal decision to Warner Brothers, so that she can't make pictures in England—but remember, Bette likes to fight.

Limiting Incomes

If all the personal incomes in this country were limited to $5,000 and all money earned in excess of this amount equally divided among those whose income is under $5,000, each beneficiary would receive less than $2 a week extra. In 1931 this excess amounted to $4,000,000,000 and the number of incomes under $5,000 was 40,000,000.—Collier's Weekly.

Manufacturing Up

Manufacturing activity increased markedly since the depression low. Value of products for 1935 was $1,126,429,000, an increase of 42.9 percent from 1933, according to the Census reports.

Employment of wage earners averaged 245,571, which exceeds the 1933 figure by 28 per cent. The amount of their wages last year was $275,007,000, a gain of 43.3 per cent over the two-year period.

The totals reported for 1935, however, are still below those reported for 1929, value of products, 27 per cent; number of wage earners, 12.8 per cent; and wages, 31.6 per cent. The monthly employment and payroll indices for this year to date indicate that manufacturing activity in California will show a favorable gain from 1935 to 1936.

LAWYERS ARGUE

local city council unburdened himself of a memorable phillipic a few years ago, has there been such a pyrotechnic display of forensics as occurred last Monday night at city council meeting.

....The walls reverberated with adjectives, adverbs, pronouns, participles, to say nothing of verbs and nouns, of two of the leading dights of the Richmond legal fraternity.

History of the Case

History of the 1936 city garbage contract situation is, briefly:

On July 1st 1936 the present contract with Perasso Brothers expired and bids were asked for the new five year contract. Bidders were the Perasso Company and the Richmond Scavenger Co. which had held the contract from 1911 to 1931. A third bidder, Antonio Mazza, of Point Richmond filed a bid at 8:01 p.m. on the night of bidding.

....Council awarded the contract in July; but Attorneys Cliff Anglim and Leo G. Marcollo, for the Perasso Brothers, filed suit on the grounds that confusing specifications had resulted in Richmond Scavenger Company not being the lower bidder, and they filed suit against the city for awarding the contract, asking a writ of mandate to the council to award to Perasso Brothers on the basis of the low bid on combined items.

Attrney Tsar N. Calfee, representing Mazza, asked an injunc- against the city council for awarding the contract without sufficient notice.

This caused City Attorney Tom Carlson and Senator-elect "Tony" T. H. DeLap, attorney for the R. S. Company, to team up in fighting a common cause.

Decision by Judge Bray

Monday morning Judge Bray handed down his decision, denying the writ and the injunction—and that caused the oratorical display on the part of Marcollo and DeLap, Calfee maintaining a dignified silence.

Whether either the Perassos or Mazza will appeal we have not been informed.

Scientists believe that below a depth of six miles in the crust of the earth there are no pores or cavities in which water could collect. For this reason it is believed that the underground waters of the earth are all above that level. Illuminated Highways Are New Safety Measure

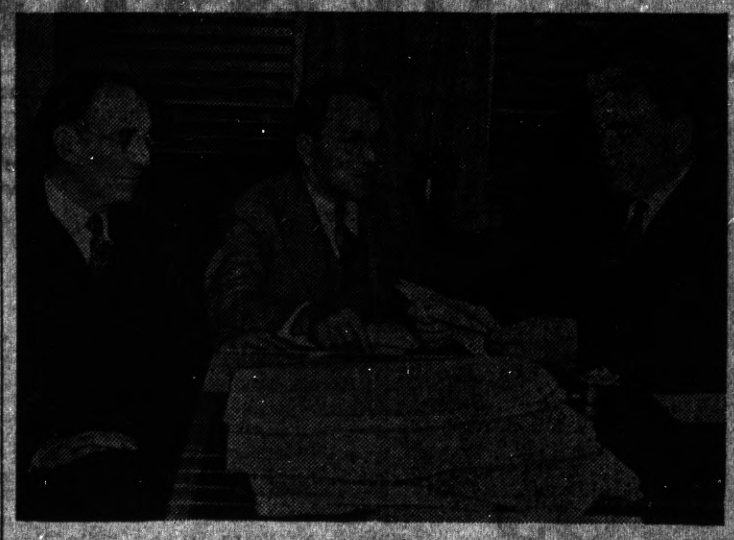
A motorist can see a pedestrian a half mile ahead and a car three-quarters of a mile ahead at night on the illuminated highway between Schenectady and Duanesburg, N. Y. The 18-mile stretch of road is lighted with 390 yellow sodium lights spaced 250 feet apart by engineers of the General Electric company and the American Road Builders' association.

Plans for Labor Peace Fail



Recent conferences between representatives of the so-called "rebel" unions and the American Federation of Labor failed to lift the deadlock or to bring peace between the craft and industrial factions of organized labor. Left to right are seen Charles Howard, president of the Typographical union; Max Zaritsky, president of the Amalgamated Hatters union and John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America.

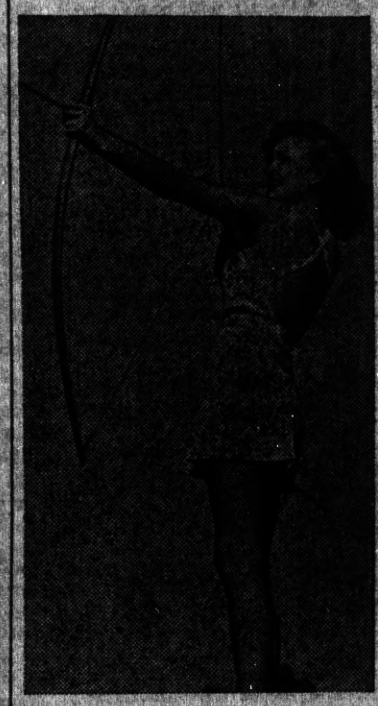
Lord Mayor of London Has Busy Year

Sir George Broadbridge, the lord mayor elect of London (right), shown with Sir Percy Vincent, the retiring lord mayor, on the Guildhall steps after the election ceremony. The lord mayor will have an unusually busy year because of the king's coronation to be held next spring.

Champion Cow Guest at Dairy Show

The world's milk and butter producing champion, Carnation Ormsby Butter King, shown with Miss Dorothy Keyes, who was "Miss Wisconsin" at the recent National Dairy show held at the Texas Centennial exposition at Dallas, Texas. The cow which has an average daily milk production of 57 quarts was shipped 2,800 miles from Seattle to attend the show.

PLAYS ARCHERY GOLF



Virginia Grey, film sta., shown playing archery golf, the latest sport to invade Hollywood. The game is similar to regular golf, except that a bow and arrow are used instead of clubs and the golf hole is changed to a target three feet in diameter.

Sentry's Lonely Vigil at Unknown Soldier's Tomb

Only if peace will this beautiful tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Washington, D. C., fulfill its purpose. With the spirit of the unknown war hero hovering above Arlington National cemetery, the sentry paces his lonely post as the world prepares to mark the eighteenth anniversary of the end of the World war.

"Cinderella" Wins Prize as Novelist

House Maid Is Author of Successful Book

Sally Salminen, erstwhile kitchen maid whose literary endeavors—notably the novel "Katrina"—have been crowned with success. While working as a maid in Asbury Park, N. J., the thirty-year-old Swedish girl began her novel. She finished it recently and sent it to Helsingfors, Finland, where it was awarded first prize of 50,000 marks in a fiction contest. Now Sally has quit the pots and pans and will devote all her time to letters. Critics declare the book has unusual literary merit and that Miss Salminen has a promising future ahead of her in the writing world. A large number of manuscripts were submitted in the Finnish fiction contest.

High Score Doctors to Contrary, Sound Football Holds Mob

THE generation - old conflict of football doctors — those whose hopefuls fill the air with passes every Saturday afternoon and those who depend on old-time principles to gain yardage—is in full cry again. In general, the theory of the high-score doctors is simple. You pass and pray and then pass again. The only trouble is that there's a lack of sustenance in this field of endeavor when it is stacked up against fundamental practice.

By this I mean there is little attention paid to the Walter Camp commandment about the necessity of the pass-tossing gents remembering that they also dwell in gosline bounded domiciles.

That the customers themselves are not committed to aerial combat is indicated by the fact that the whole Eastern and Mid-Western concept is in the other direction—and it is here that the best congregations are drawn by interpreters of the old-time tenets.

Let us examine the point for a moment. Recently while Yale's regular punters were averaging 40 yards and the gifted Larry Kelley was getting better than half that distance with one unintentional flick of his tootsie, 43,000 were watching the Elis perform against Navy in Baltimore. At the same time 60,000 were seeing Penn and Princeton in Philadelphia, Pitt and Duquesne were entertaining 20,000 of the home folks, Army was slapping over Harvard before 25,000 customers and 40,000 were gloating about Northwestern's triumph over Ohio State.

Crowd Pleasers Play Game of 20 Years Ago

I mention these games merely at random, but they serve the purpose very well. Except from the diehards and the rain haters there was very little complaint about the essential goodness of the afternoon's celebrations. Yet—aside possibly from Ohio State which now and then goes chasing false ideals to the eternal and well-expressed sorrow of the town's taxi drivers and cigar clerks—all these teams play a game which is not vastly different from that of ten, or even twenty, years ago.

Yale's attack is as much a combination of outwardly, although not bascially, different schools as is its coaching staff. Princeton adheres to the single wing, short punt style brought from its full Mid-Western flowering by Fritz Crisler and now widely used by the Meehans, Snavelys and other celebrated professors of this section.

WHEN NOTRE DAME MEETS NOTRE DAME

Tomorow at the Army-Navy Club in the Fairmount Hotel, San Francisco, will occur an annual Notre Dame Club get together. Topic of the day after listening to the radio broadcast of the Notre Dame-Army football game at the Polo Grounds, in New York, will be the "little big game" next Sunday at Kezar Stadium—Santa Clara coached by Notre Dame's "Buck" Shaw versus St. Mary's, coached by Notre Dame's "Slip" Madigan. Sentiment is quite evenly divided between the members of the N. D. club, but Madigan and Burt will have a few guests along to see that our Contra Costa College is not overlooked.

So it is with the others. Army would rather come on the field without its mule than without that cutback, which was achieving touchdowns when Charley Daley was a Plebe. Except for the refinements there is no essential difference between the efforts Harlow now makes at Harvard and the football he taught at Colgate 15 years back. In essence Lynn Waldorf's Northwestern triumphs are gained by the football he learned from Chick Meehan at Syarucse.

Chick Meehan

Pitt ranks close to the top year after year because Jock Sutherland believes in the perfection of a few plays and a team rather than in razzle dazzle. It was the return of a punt—a performance which was just as popular and as efficacious when the two last met in Philadelphia in 1893—that enabled Penn to beat Princeton.

Navy uses Notre Dame trappings—as indeed do most other teams, since this so-called system was old long before Rockne ever heard of South Bend.

Tulane came from the South—a section which for some reason is often written about as going in for zipper dipper stuff although the Alabamas, Mississippi States and Georgias almost consistently adhere to the orthodox when winning—and ruined Colgate. The job was done with a very fine line.

Colgate — popularly reported as the leading exponent of three-card monte football although the truth is Andy Kerr dons his Wizard of Chenango robes only when the necessity of adapting his material to the situation leaves him no other choice—just could not keep up. It—but this started to be an examination of the changes heralded as coming over football.

Eat at the EAGLE CAFE

Frankie Neil's Cauliflower COLYUM

Wow, another great show at Madison Square Gardens and everyone that missed it lost out on a real treat.

Doubtless a great many had gone to the great bridge celebration, and you can hardly blame them; but everyone should turn out for the next card at the Gardens as it is likely to be a honey.

Billy Burke did the refereeing and the contests were great.

The judges, from the standpoint of the crowd, came in for a little disagreement from the collective verdict; but the decisions were close and they have to have a night off occasionally.

First bout was between Middleweights ony Zapacosta, at 156, from San Jose, and Loe Alessi, at 156, from San Jose. Boy, but they surely stood up there and took 'em—with Zapacosta getting a technical KO in the last minute of the fourth round.

Next set-to was between Frank Bodich, 144, of San Francisco & Freddie Zapacosta, 145-lb southpaw from San Jose. Bodich was a terrific hitter and won with a TKO in the first minute.

Stanley Ketchel, of Richmond, 132, and Shorty Rose, San Francisco. Ketchel surely is a game youngster, but wilder than a March Hare. He got the decision from the judges, amidst a lot of booing, as many of the paid customers figured his punches to be a mite low. I believe this was on account of his wildness; and a draw could have been declared.

The next, another melee, was between Manuel Cabral, 135, of San Jose and Archie Blanco, of Concord, also 135. Blanco's second gave him instructions in the Spanish, which was, in itself, a novelty.

All kinds of acrobatics, over heads and all, trips through the ropes, fighting awfully rough. It was a bout to look at. Cabral got the decision, a close one.

Now comes the match—Fulton McMillan, Berkeley 113-iber, and Al Mattoes, at 121, of San Jose. Little McMillan went on to substitute for a larger boy who had not shown up. The shoes they lent him would have fit Step 'N Fetchit, the colored middleweight; but shoes or no shoes, he came through to win with a TKO in the second round. Half a dozen pairs of woolen socks it took to fill the shoes of Jack the Giant Killer, but little Fulton McMillan performed.

Another good bout was between Joe Ybarra at 133 from Concord, and Louie Ramirez, at 135, from San Jose. They sure did go. Ybarra, who is a comer, knew too much for Ramirez, and gave him a pretty tough punching about the body.

Take my word for it and don't miss the next boxing card. All the tavern keepers along the El Cerrito "white way" bought blocks of tickets, in tens and fives for the next show. It will be a sell out so get your tickets early.

Ryan Printer. A Democratic Newspaper that is solidly behind President Franklin D. Roosevelt and the New Deal.

EXTEMPORANEOUS REMARKS OF THE PRESIDENT ADDRESSED TO GATHERING OF WORKERS OF The Democratic National Committee At the Biltmore Hotel, New York On October 31st, 1936

I THINK I am entitled to say, "my fellow workers"; I envy you, because in previous years I have been at Headquarters during campaigns. I know how hard the work is, but it is fun, and during these past months I have missed being up here in New York helping you good people to make the wheels go round.

But, you, too, have missed something. I wish you could have been out on the road with me; it would have given you a tremendous thrill, just as it did me, going into a great many different parts of the country, seeing the faces of men, women and children and especially seeing their interest in things American.

I think the most important impression that I have carried with me through these past weeks hac been the impression that more greatly than in any other campaign in all of our American history, people are taking an intelligent interest—reading, going and listening to people's talks, reading all the literature of both parties, and then making up their own minds. It is the greatest thing that has happened for our democratic form of government in these later years.

I am glad that people have been reading the literature of both sides. I am glad that they have been going to meetings where people on both sides speak. It is an extension of the forum idea of getting both sides of the question presented. Of course I may be a little prejudiced, but at the same time I believe that the more people listen to both sides and read the literature of both sides, the bigger our majority is going to be.

You, at Headquarters, of course, prepare the material for this campaign and see to it that every city and every county and every little hamlet is given the information, and I am proud of the fact that our information has been kept at a pretty high level.

One reason for this is the fact that we have at the head of this campaign a man who ha s always been on the square.

I have known Jim Farley for a great many years and I have never known him yet to do or think a mean thing.

For a long time now—for many years, he has been taking it on the chin—taking it on the chin with a smile and not batting an eyelid, because, I think in the back of his head he had had the idea that in spite of all kinds of unfair attacks, the American people, just like you and me, will read him for what he is, absolutely on the level.

And incidentally, of course, I get reports not only from Jim but from lots of people—about what has been going on here in New York and, after experienee with many headquarters dating back to 1912, I have come to the very definite conclusion that the national headquarters this year has been what we call in the Navy "a happy ship." No crossed wires, everything clicking, and the result is going to bear that out next Tuesday.

And so I am very grateful, I am very grateful to all of you from Jim down to the office boy. And maybe the office boy will be National Chairman or President about thirty years from now.

I want to thank you for all that you have done—all the many hours that you have spent, overtime and regular time, not only working in the offices but doing a lot of work back in your own hmes.

It has been an inspiration for me to know that I have had the support of all you good people, not only the last few months but also the last few years, and I think we are going to continue to have that support in the next four years.

So once more let me thank you from the bottom of my heart. I wish I could meet each and every one of you in person. I want you to consider that I have shaken the hand of each and every one of you and I hope we will meet again some day soon.

I want to take this occasion, when you are all here, to send our thanks, yours and mine, to the many hundreds of men and women in all the States of the Union, in all the counties of the Union, in all the villages and cities of the Union, who in their own way have been carrying on the same kind of task that we have been engaged in. I am going to ask Jim to send your regards, my regards, your thanks and my thanks to those in every part of the Nation who have been working towards the goal that we all believe we are going to reach next Tuesday.

Goodbye and good luck.

(The POINT RICHMOND PROGRESS feels honored to print the above extemporaneous address of President Roosevelt, a cop. of which has been sent to party workers throughout the nation, because the response to the President's candidacy came from every person who voted for him. And as a worker for his re-election the President would doubtless not wish to slight anyone, may each reader of the Progress, who worked for Roosevelt feel that the sentiments expressed are a measof the President's gratitude.—H. R. B.)
